Audacious Ideas:

University Museums and Collections
as Change-Agents for a Better World

June 21-24, 2018

University of Miami

A close-up photograph of two women, one Black and one Asian, looking intently at a globe. The woman on the left is wearing a patterned scarf and a watch. The woman on the right is wearing a dark jacket over a striped shirt. The globe is the central focus, showing the Americas and parts of Europe and Africa. The background is a plain, light-colored wall.

Audacious Ideas: University Museums and Collections as Change-Agents for a Better World June 21-24, 2018, University of Miami

We live in a dangerous, often unstable, and environmentally compromised world. What can academic museums, galleries, and collections do to remedy this situation? If we are dedicated to teaching and training new generations of students and to serving increasingly diverse communities, how do we make a positive difference? And how do we assess the impact that we are making?

Audacious Ideas provides a lively platform for the sharing of exciting ideas about how museums, galleries, and collections can serve as change-agents. This year's program addresses how constituents are adopting new roles and adapting old ones, welcoming new constituencies while keeping current visitors, and enhancing our value as critical partners in higher education while promoting a more just, peaceful, and healthy world.

A to Z: Infusing the Encyclopedic Collection with New Life (LAM)

Facilitators: Jon Mogul, Associate Director, Curatorial and Education, The Wolfsonian–Florida International University; Jill Deupi, Director and Chief Curator, Lowe Art Museum, University of Miami; and William Eiland, Director, University of Georgia Art Museum

This Roundtable will focus on clearly articulating the challenges associated with presenting historic and/or encyclopedic collections, as well as sharing information about successful strategies for display and engagement. Participants will be invited to brainstorm collectively and to think expansively about new ways for enlivening such holdings.

Whose Academic Museum?: Transforming a Community Museum into an Academic Museum for All (BC)

Facilitator: H. Alexander Rich, Ph.D., Curator and Director of Galleries & Exhibitions, Polk Museum of Art, and Assistant Professor of Art History, Florida Southern College

This Roundtable will explore strategies for “academizing” a museum so that it caters effectively to both campus and community audiences. Attendees will learn strategies for engaging all visitors academically and for presenting a museum’s didactic mission as a key draw for students, professors, and general audiences alike.

Categories: Audience Development & Engagement; Access, Diversity & Inclusion; and Exhibitions & Collections

Meeting Them Where They Are: Engaging Students through Exhibitions and Programming in Communal Spaces (S)

Facilitator: Jillian Nakornthap, Exhibitions and Public Programming Associate, Corcoran School of the Arts and Design, The George Washington University

This Roundtable will explore new models for creating exhibitions and public programming in non-traditional locations. We’ll begin the conversation by discussing how the Corcoran School converted a large, open atrium into a communal, multi-disciplinary space where exhibitions, performances, and meetings happen in tandem with one another. Museum professionals will be invited to share how their institutions have moved beyond the “white cube” model and/or seek suggestions on ways to engage their academic community outside of the gallery.

Categories: Audience Development & Engagement and Exhibitions & Collections

Stealing Culture: The Intersection of Law and Museums (IA)

Facilitator: Joseph S. Mella, Director, Vanderbilt University Fine Arts Gallery

With Nicole M. Crawford, Chief Curator, University of Wyoming Art Museum and Associate Lecturer, Museum Studies, Wyoming Institute for Humanities Research & Center for Global and Area Studies, University of Wyoming; Elizabeth Marlowe, Associate Professor of Art & Art History, Program Director, Museum Studies, Colgate University; Leila Amineddoleh, Founder and Managing Partner of Amineddoleh & Associates, LLP; Darrell D. Jackson, Ph.D., Director, Prosecution Assistance Program, Associate Professor, Law & Adjunct Faculty, African American & Diaspora Studies; and Kayle R. Avery, CAM-ART Provenance Research Project and Exhibitions Coordinator, UW Art Museum

This Roundtable will discuss university museum collections from two angles: 1) how university museums might, in the future, provide a home for private collections of non-AAMD-compliant antiquities (such as those lacking documentation back to 1970), where issues of provenance, cultural property, forgery, etc., can be foregrounded in research, teaching, and displays; and 2) how university museums respond when objects already in the collection are discovered to have been stolen or looted. The varied backgrounds of the participants, from the fields of law, museology and art history, will allow for a rich diversity of perspectives regarding how museums can change their policies to better protect themselves and objects of cultural heritage, and how both sides can work together to create positive change in the role of museum and their collections in society.

Crowd-Sourced Curating to Engage Current and New Audiences (BE)

Facilitator: Heather Gibson Moqtaderi, Assistant Director & Associate Curator, Arthur Ross Gallery, University of Pennsylvania

This Roundtable addresses ways that crowd-sourcing can be implemented as an audience development strategy. In this context, crowd-sourcing is defined as the process of generating exhibition and programming content through audience member feedback. Participants can expect to learn about how crowd-sourcing has been implemented by various art institutions, along with recommendations for successfully using this technique.

Mission Change – Revisit Your Mission, Refine your Statement, Reaffirm Your Purpose (BW)

Facilitator: Douglas Perkins, Associate Director, Operations and Finance, Middlebury College Museum of Art

In the current climate of constant social evaluation, friction, and change, it’s crucial for a campus museum to ensure that its mission statement succinctly conveys that purpose and articulates its relationship to social change. Taking the recent process to revise Middlebury College Museum of Art’s mission statement as a point of departure, this Roundtable will explore issues related to an academic museum’s mission and purpose: when or whether to revise a mission statement; setting a reasonable project timeline; solidifying stakeholder buy-in; getting meaningful feedback from reticent staff; including student voices; the role of vision and value statements; dovetailing with the mission of the larger parent institution; and using mission to drive branding.

Art Has the Power to Confront, Challenge, and Converse with the Political and Social World around You—Voces de Resistencia

Madison Auten, Graduate Student, Museum Studies and Anthropology, Union Art Gallery, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee

The Union Art Gallery at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, is making strides by using art as a vehicle for social and political change on our campus and in our local community. Like many other large universities across the nation, the university and city itself are challenged with issues surrounding race, nationality, and gender. University museums and galleries can be powerful players as agents of change, offering a safe, inclusive, and informative environment that can foster meaningful dialogues on current topics that can affect us as individuals, locally and globally.

Beyond Boundaries: Mixing Art and Science in University Museums

Blanca María Cárdenas Carrión, Doctoral Candidate, Philosophy of Science and Science Communications, Universitas, Museum of the Sciences, National Autonomous University of Mexico

By mixing art and science, beauty and truth, we can transform university museums into facilities for curiosity, where collections and exhibitions can motivate creative and significant learning among visitors. This presentation deals with disciplinary and epistemological dichotomies, trying to arrive at a more fluid and dynamic way to think of university museums as agents of change to their communities.

Introducing Art to STEM Students: Exhibitions and Education Programs at Tsinghua University Art Museum

Mingqian Liu, Ph.D. student, Department of Architecture,
Texas A&M University

Through exhibitions and education programs that connect art appreciation with scientific understanding, Tsinghua University Art Museum introduced various forms of visual and material arts to its overwhelmingly STEM student body. This presentation introduces some of the successful practices at this newly opened institution in China to university museum educators who have the similar kind of audience among their students.

Franklin Kelly: The Work of Art in the Age of Malraux's Museum

Franklin Kelly, Deputy Director and Chief Curator, National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C., and a Distinguished Affiliate, Department of Art History and Archaeology, University of Maryland, College Park

In his The Work of Art in the Age of Mechanical Reproduction (1935), Walter Benjamin famously examined the impact of modern photographic techniques on the nature of art itself. For Benjamin, the aura of an object was devalued by mechanical reproduction and the ubiquity it fostered. Half a generation later, André Malraux took a rather different stance: In “The Museum Without Walls” (the first chapter of The Voices of Silence, which he published between 1947 and 1950), the art theorist argued that the wide availability of printed facsimiles facilitated a kind of ideal art history, in which collections far too vast to fit in any physical museum might be assembled for study. Thus was born the concept of the museum without walls, or, as it is often termed, the “imaginary museum.”

Neither Benjamin nor Malraux lived to see the digital age, but it is not hard to imagine that, if they had, they would consider their theories amplified exponentially by new technologies. Today, anyone with interest and an internet connection can access reproductions of objects that are of extremely high quality—indeed, in many cases, extraordinary fidelity stretches the bounds of credulity. Where, then, does that leave museums, which by their very nature are predicated upon the absolute primacy of original works of art and cultural artifacts, the intrinsic uniqueness of which can only be fully grasped through direct experience? Further, how should museums embrace the possibilities of modern reproductions and yet still confirm that they will always, in the end, be simulacra? What strategies might museums develop and employ that would expand the ways direct experience of works of art can inform teaching and learning? And how can we honor our missions while still staying abreast of technological advances and the ever-shifting needs and expectations of our diverse audiences?

Kelly is an art historian specializing in 18th, 19th, and early 20th century American and British paintings. He has written extensively on and organized exhibitions devoted to a wide range of artists, including Thomas Cole, Frederic Edwin Church, Sanford R. Gifford, John Constable, J.M.W. Turner, Winslow Homer, Thomas Eakins, George Bellows, Edward Hopper, and Jackson Pollock. Kelly has lectured extensively at museums and universities in America and abroad and has also held curatorial appointments at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, the Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute, the Minneapolis Institute of Arts, and the Corcoran Gallery of Art. He received his undergraduate training at the University of North Carolina, his M.A. from Williams College, and his Ph.D. from the University of Delaware.

Engaging Progress: Responsive Programs at University Museums (BC + BE)

Sponsored by BNIM

As museums continue to evolve as discursive, participatory spaces, university museum programs increasingly direct the public reception of art history, facilitate dialogue across disciplines, and foster relevant responses to contemporary ideas of art and culture. Long identified as the primary “public” for campus museums, students increasingly join faculty, staff, and community members to bring fresh perspectives as advisors, makers, curators, and participants in museum programs. This panel will explore the role of public programs as a conduit between our diverse publics and as a site to grapple with relevant local and global issues, and demonstrate ways in which the university and the surrounding communities can become reciprocal resources to make change through rigorous, experimental, and engaging programs.

Introductions: Carey Nagle, BNIM

Panelists:

Paula Gangopadhyay: The Power of Asking...What If?

Paula Gangopadhyay is a respected thought-leader on innovation in education and is the recipient of several state and national awards and recognitions. She was appointed Deputy Director, Office of Museum Services, at the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS), in January 2016. In her current role, she collaborates with IMLS's senior leadership on agency priorities, policies, and partnerships, and provides leadership and direction for the museum grants and special initiatives.

Over her professional career of more than twenty years, Ms. Gangopadhyay has worked in small, medium, and large museums and cultural organizations, as well as government, business, and education sectors, where she led systemic change and positive community impact at local, state, and national levels. She was appointed by President Barack Obama to the National Museum and Library Services Board in 2012 and served in that capacity for three years. She received her B.A. and M.A. in history from Indore University, India; her post-graduate certification in archival, museum, and editing studies from Duquesne University, Pittsburg, PA; and an education policy fellowship from the Institute for Educational Leadership.

With Our Powers Combined: Museums and Libraries Teaming Up to Teach, Engage, and Serve New Constituencies (BW)

This panel focuses on ways museums and libraries can foster beneficial partnerships on campus and off to create collaborative teaching that is more critical, joint programming that is more sustainable, and interconnected presences that are more visible. Attendees will learn which museum-library partnerships make the most sense, how to identify and begin new joint programs, and how these collaborations can strengthen all organizations involved.

Panelists:

Jennie Davy, Exhibits Manager, William & Mary Libraries

Kyle McQuillan, Mosaic Fellow, William & Mary Libraries

Alexander Watkins, Assistant Professor, Art & Architecture Librarian, University of Colorado Libraries

Moderator: Hope Saska, Curator of Collections and Exhibitions, University of Colorado Art Museum

Categories: Audience Development & Engagement and Collections & Exhibitions

Decolonizing Museum Collections and Practices in the Context of University Learning (S)

Through a series of case studies, this panel explores decolonization of university-related museums as a key component of serving as more inclusive and equitable change-agents on campus and beyond. Topics include honoring indigenous knowledges and object histories, fostering collaborative partnerships, acknowledging the impact of colonialism on specific peoples and broader institutional, intellectual, and educational practices, exhibiting museum collections derived from colonial trade, shifting interpretation from owner-centric object stories to more comprehensive narratives, and negotiating potential tensions between academic and general public audiences.

Panelists:

Juliette Bianco, Deputy Director, and Jami Powell, Associate Curator of Native American Art, Hood Museum of Art, Dartmouth College: Practicing Positionality: Opening Spaces for Dialogue in a Teaching Museum

Catharine Dann Roeber, Brock W. Jobe Assistant Professor, Decorative Arts and Material Culture, and Josh Lane, Curator of Furniture, Winterthur Museum: One Cabinet, Many

Questions: A Case Study in Student-Driven Exhibitions and Ethical Curation at Winterthur

Leah Sweet, Lynch Curatorial Coordinator of Academic Programs, Herbert F. Johnson Museum of Art, Cornell University: Temporary or Permanent? Leveraging University Class Sessions to Revamp Collection Displays and Interpretive Resources

Moderator: Leah Sweet

Categories: Access, Diversity & Inclusion and Exhibitions & Collections

First Listen: Advocating for Equity and Inclusion (IA)

The panel will discuss strategies, techniques, and resources used by their own institutions to address diversity issues as a catalyst for change in academic museums. Learning outcomes will include methods of reaching new and culturally aware audiences through education and research initiatives.

Panelists:

Paige Willis, Education Program Assistant, Harn Museum of Art, University of Florida

Scott Bishop, Curator of Adult Education, Jule Collins Smith Museum of Fine Arts, Auburn University

Liam Sweeney, Analyst at Ithaka S+R (Andrew W. Mellon Foundation case study of Spelman College Museum of Fine Art)

Understanding the Code of Best Practices in Fair Use (BC + BE)

Facilitators: Hunter O'Hanian, CAA Executive Director, and Aakash Suchak, Grants and Special Programs Manager

The College Art Association (CAA) created the Code of Best Practices in Fair Use with and for the visual arts community, particularly those involved in art writing, art practice, museum work, teaching about art, and putting images online. The Code describes common situations in which materials under copyright can be used in these professional areas. Bring your lunch and learn more about the basic tenets of the code and its application. This will be of particular interest to art and architectural historians, artists, designers, curators, museum directors, educators, rights and reproduction officers, and editors at scholarly publishers and journals.

The GLAMorous Life: Maximizing the Potentialities and the Potency of Gallery-Library-Archive-Museum Collaborations across our Campuses (BC + BE)

This panel brings together five leaders in the field of academic art museum and library collaboration and resource-sharing, each of whom will briefly discuss the successes and challenges they have faced in their work in the GLAM sector. They will equally speak to what they perceive to be key opportunities in this arena.

Panelists:

Lisa Corrin Graziose, The Ellen Philips Katz Director, Block Museum of Art, Northwestern University

Andria Derstine, John G. W. Cowles Director, Allen Memorial Art Museum, Oberlin College

Jill Deupi, Beaux Arts Director & Chief Curator, Lowe Art Museum, University of Miami

Building Diversity & Inclusion (BW)

This panel explores ways museums can build diversity and inclusion. The University of Richmond Museums examine student engagement with Spanish-speaking communities, which includes addressing social inequality awareness, fortified citizenry, and mutual appreciation. The "Encountering Fife" project in Scotland seeks to give refugees the opportunity to share experiences of their new lives on the east coast of Scotland by creating a photographic exhibition in partnership with local secondary school pupils. Those attending the session will consider the practical ways in which university museums can support the integration and personal development of immigrants and what challenges and pitfalls they might encounter while doing so.

Panelists:

Martha Wright, Coordinator of Visitor and Tour Services, University of Richmond Museums: It's All about the Experience: Inclusion through Collaboration between Spanish in the Community class and UR Museums

Matthew Sheard, Learning & Access Curator, Museum of the University of St. Andrews, Scotland: Encountering Scotland: Championing Inclusion among Refugee Communities at the Museum of the University of St. Andrews

Addressing the Academic Museum's Social Origins, University History, and Indigenous Communities (S)

Sponsored by
Mathers Museum of World Cultures

This panel approaches the value of academic museums from a range of perspectives: the important role of collectors in the development of knowledge and research; the use of diverse collections to build inclusive experiences among specialists and the broader community; and how to create meaningful and socially inclusive displays using contemporary museological methodologies, emphasizing the cooperation with different target groups and stakeholders of the museum and offering a curator tool kit.

Introductions: Judith Kirk, Mathers Museum of World Cultures

Panelists:

María Molina Leon, Director, Museo Universidad Panamericana: The Social Origin of University Museums as Agents of Change: Knowledge and Development of Generations through Donations of Heritage

Karin G. Weil, Director, Dirección Museológica, Universidad Austral de Chile: The Documentation of University Collections: An Exercise in Inclusion and Equity within and Beyond the Campus

Mariann Raisma, Director, University of Tartu Museum: Touch of the University Spirit: How to Create an Inclusive and Meaningful Exhibition about University History

Luisa Fernanda Rico Mansard, Coordinator, University Seminar of Museums and Museographic Facilities, Universum, Museum of the Sciences, National Autonomous University of Mexico: Knowledge to Come and Go in University Museums

Moderator: Karin G. Weil

Advancing University Collections Without a Museum (IA)

This international panel will discuss how collections can be integrated into the academic and public education of the university community despite the lack of a bricks-and-mortar museum or gallery space. Considering the limitation of space, this session will focus on how each institution maximizes the potential use of university collections through unique physical and digital exhibits, making cultural and social impacts in the community.

Panelists:

Laila Zwisler, MSC, Division Head of History of Technology, Technical University of Denmark

Pilar Irala-Hortal, Ph.D. Professor of Communication and Social Science, San Jorge University

Vanessa Rousseau, Ph.D., Adjunct Curator and Antiquities Consultant, Weisman Art Museum, University of Minnesota

Scott Legge, Ph.D., Associate Professor and Chair, Department of Anthropology, Macalester College

Strategies for Successfully Engaging and Empowering Students through Docent Programs, Collection Development, and Research (BC + BE)

Panelists explore best practices for engaging students—in courses or as interns, work-study employees, and volunteers—in researching collections, proposing acquisitions, and guiding visitors. Attendees will leave with tools and tested methods of working with students that are scalable to the size and goals of their institution.

Panelists:

Amber Geary, Museum Educator and Docent Program Supervisor, Wellin Museum of Art, Hamilton College

Gina Hall, Associate Educator for School and Family Programs, Smith College Museum of Art

Leah Niederstadt, Assistant Professor of Museum Studies & Curator of the Permanent Collection, Department of Art/Art History, Wheaton College

Art in Public Spaces: Controversies over Representations (BW)

At a time when social justice movements have highlighted the inequity between whose history is publicly visible and whose history is invisible, what is the role of the campus art museum in shaping the contested meaning of public art? This panel provides attendees with an expanded meaning of public art that includes not only site-specific installations, but also portraits of university leaders and art circulating in campus loan programs; strategies for managing the competing interests of stakeholders; and suggestions for avoiding pitfalls and building alliances.

Panelists:

Meghan C. Doherty, Ph.D., Director, Doris Ulmann Galleries Curator, College Art Collections Assistant Professor, Art History, Berea College

Daniel Feinberg, Assistant Professor of Design and Sculpture, Berea College

ICOM international council of museums
US

We invite you to join ICOM-US and the worldwide members of ICOM (International Council of Museums) in Kyoto, Japan September 1-7, 2019 for the 25th ICOM General Conference.

ICOM-US, based in Washington, DC, is the National Committee of ICOM for the United States. ICOM-US will be offering a limited number of travel grants to US members who will be participating in the conference. We also recommend joining an international committee (ex- UMAC) and submitting a paper to present in Kyoto. The international committees also offer travel grants for participants to attend. We hope to see you there!

Techniques Used and their Improvements to Preserve the Germplasm of Plants for Museum Collections; Sri Lanka Scenario, especially in Educational Purposes

Professor A.A.Y. Amarasinghe, Faculty of Agricultural Sciences, Sabaragamuwa University of Sri Lanka, with Dr. D.M. Suratissa, Department of Zoology, University of Colombo

This poster presents the best techniques for conserving and preserving ex-situ and in-situ plant germplasm, based on practical classes with university students.

Volunteer Management in University Museums

Silvana Arago Telona, Assistant in the Department of Museological Studies, Museum of the Sciences, National Autonomous University of Mexico

This poster deals with the advantages and impact of a volunteer program at university museums. By recognizing the voluntary work as a topic of our interest, we can identify the different departments where volunteer effort is needed, as well as its value for the university. Our aim is to highlight how volunteers can increase our sense of belonging and identification to a specific community.

The Cultural Memory of the Extermination of Polish Officers Murdered in Katyn in the Narrative and Educational Activity of the Polish Army Museum – Martyrological Department of the Katyn Museum

Adam Bulawa, Director, Polish Army Museum in Warsaw, and Anna Popielarczyk-Palega, Main Specialist, Polish Army Museum, Kazimierz Wielki University

This poster explores the birth and long life of the Katyn lie and the slow investigation into the truth about the crime. Visitors will learn about the Katyn massacre, the Polish Army, and cultural memory.

The Role of Outdoor Museum Techniques in Zoological Education Programs: the Sri Lankan Experience while Teaching Wildlife Biology at the Undergraduate Level

Dr. D.M. Suratissa, Department of Zoology, University of Colombo, with Professor A.A.Y. Amarasinghe, Faculty of Agricultural Sciences, Sabaragamuwa University of Sri Lanka

Because the preparation of museum specimens and maintaining voucher specimen collections for exhibition purposes are no longer encouraged by the Fauna and Flora Protection Ordinance and regulations imposed by ethical committees, teaching zoology-related subjects has become more difficult. This study suggests that the proper use of museum techniques can be effectively utilized to address this situation while supporting quality teaching.

A Minimally Expensive Exhibition Sharing Program for the University Museum Network and Transnational Collaboration of University Museums

Jeng-Horng Chen, Director, NCKU Museum, and Associate Professor, Department of Systems & Naval Mechatronic Engineering, National Cheng Kung University, Taiwan

For university museums that barely manage to maintain daily operations and fundamental duties, the possibility of participating in traveling exhibitions seems unrealistic because of the cost involved. This poster proposes a solution to this challenge by having network members share the cost of manufacturing an exhibition.

Museum Commons: Connecting Diversities of Collections, People and Places

Yu Homma, Research Fellow, Keio University Art Center, Tokyo

This presentation introduces the concept of “Museum Commons,” which considers a university museum as a new connecting hub for collections, people, and places in and outside the university. The poster shares and discusses the challenges of surveying “invisible” collections in the university, communicating with people from various sectors, and opening research activities to broader contexts.

Museums as Change-Agents: Increased Inclusive Capacity Building at a Small Museum through Incorporating 3D Technologies into Exhibit and Educational Programs

Dr. Eileen Johnson, Director of Academic and Curatorial Programs, and Chair, Heritage and Museum Sciences, Horn Professor of Museum Science, Museum of Texas Tech University; Dr. Stance Hurst, Field Manager, Lubbock Lake Landmark, and Graduate Faculty, Heritage & Museum Sciences, Texas Tech University; and Jessica Stepp, Administrative Intern, Museum of Texas Tech University

3D technologies provide for experiential interaction opportunities in museum exhibits and sharing collections but each museum must weigh the costs and benefits for themselves. Outcomes from incorporating 3D modeling and 3D printing into an exhibit at the Lubbock Lake Landmark suggest the learning curve to provide an informative visitor experience is steep, but the low costs of these rapidly evolving technologies provide an accessible and exciting set of tools in which to engage visitors more fully with both tangible and intangible heritage.

The Value and Strategies of a New Interdisciplinary Course

W. Mei-Fang Kuo, Associate Curator, National Cheng Kung University Museum, Tainan, Taiwan

University museums have a diversity of collections, both tangible and intangible. This poster invites students to visit a campus historical site to learn more about the university’s heritage and stimulate their interest and connection to the university.

Expanding the Network: Science and Arts Communication Training in a University Art Museum

Olivia Miller, Curator of Exhibitions and Education, The University of Arizona Museum of Art

Working with the Pacific Science Center and Conner Prairie Living History Museum, The University of Arizona Museum of Art has recently expanded its educational offerings by integrating a Science and Arts Communication Fellowship, which trains scientists and artists to facilitate interactive experiences with the public that encourage wonder, curiosity, and discovery. Attendees at this poster session will leave with concrete examples of communication activities, ways to adapt the framework to fit the needs of museum staff and fellows, and ideas to sustain the program moving forward.

International Education and the University Museum

Ashley Simmons Coffey, Graduate Student, University of Kentucky Art Museum

This poster will discuss ways museums and galleries can engage in campus internationalization through the curriculum and co-curricular programming. It will present how to organize internationally themed programming, recruit students and staff to participate, and how such programs will benefit both the university museum and gallery and the university's international education office.

11 Teaching Innovation Programs in a New University Museum in Spain. The Case of Learning Palliative Care in Medicine Contemplating Rothko

Elisa Montserrat Rull, Director of Communication and Corporate Development, University of Navarra Museum

The museum at the University of Navarra in Spain serves as an international center in which the arts are used for research and teaching with an interdisciplinary perspective. Its innovative programs, which cover such subjects as law, communications, science, medicine, education, and psychology, encourage faculty and students to think and learn in expansive ways.

Intercultural Competence at the Teaching Museum

Anne Tiballi, Director of Academic Engagement, Penn Museum, University of Pennsylvania

This poster provides an overview of the ways in which educators and museums can create programs that achieve intercultural competence goals within the higher education curriculum using object-based learning. Drawing from collaborations between the Penn Museum and University language programs, medical residents, and K-12 education in the Philadelphia area, the poster presents strategies for selecting artifacts, developing classroom activities, and creating assessment tools to test specific elements of intercultural competence.

Rhythmic Light: Contemporary Cuban Photography by Arien Chang Castán and Leysis Quesada Vera.

Roberto Vasquez, Undergraduate Student, Gund Gallery, Kenyon College

Guided by museum staff at the Gund Gallery, a student team participated in all aspects of the curatorial process, from research to final exhibition design. The exhibition brought together the work of two contemporary Cuban photographers – Arien Chang Castán and Leysis Quesada Vera – who intimately portray everyday life in Cuba. The poster will present the curatorial process, its challenges, and outcomes. Attendees will come to value our attempts to engage the larger campus community through multiple interdisciplinary lectures, literary and audiovisual supplements for the exhibition, and –hopefully– a publication.

The Ghent University Museum: From Hidden Collections to Full-blown Museum

Dominick Verschelde, Mcs., Collection Manager, Zoology Collection, Ghent University Museum, Belgium

Ghent University decided to combine its collections, botanical garden, and archive into one Academic Heritage unit for which the collections, in their turn, are to be combined into one grand museum, which will be open to the general public. In cooperation with an external company of scenographers, the different curators and collection managers are now working on the story, object choice, and layout of the permanent exhibition, while the building for the future museum is being renovated and adapted. Different museum tasks and responsibilities are being redirected to the curators and collections managers and their job descriptions altered accordingly. This poster presents the story, scenography, layout and selected chosen objects, as well as the new roles of our curators and collections and managers.

Presenter

Museum Travel Alliance (MTA) is a consortium of museums whose patrons and supporters are passionate about cultural travel. MTA offers its affiliated museums access to a curated selection of travel opportunities led by renowned curators and scholars.

Join the MTA and give your patrons and supporters the opportunity to venture afield with like-minded art enthusiasts on journeys that awaken new insights into art and culture. Visit UNESCO World Heritage sites, and travel on elegant chartered ships, planes, and luxury trains. Go behind the scenes of major cultural institutions and visit private collections as you discover masterpieces in context and in situ.
